

2007 GEORGIA TECH MODEL UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE

Sponsored by the Sam Nunn School of International Affairs

October 8-9, 2007

February 21, 2007

Model UN Advisor:

It is my distinguished honor to extend an invitation to the 2007 Georgia Tech Model United Nations Conference (GTMUN). Our Secretariat endeavors to offer a positive arena of quality debate and is working to make this year's event the greatest to date. This year's conference is scheduled for October 8 and 9 and is located on the campus of the Georgia Institute of Technology in the energetic setting of Atlanta, Georgia.

It is our goal to provide an experience that is enjoyable and educational for both delegates and advisers. Each year we pleased to welcome students from across the nation to our campus for quality debate and the opportunity to share ideas and build professional relationships with other participants. We offer thirteen diverse committees ranging in size from 15 to over 100 members which address a wide breadth of topics and encourage an intimate understanding of the UN structure and the practice of cooperation. Our staff is composed of Georgia Tech students, representing a variety of areas of study, working with the faculty of the Sam Nunn School of International Affairs to offer a vast array of expertise to all participants. All members of our staff are enthusiastically anticipating this year's conference and look forward to working with you and your students.

In response to overwhelming positive comments following last year's conference, I am pleased to announce our return to the College of Management Building. This facility provides an ideal environment for committee simulation and utilizes Georgia Tech's unique blend of technology and education. The College of Management Building is located within close vicinity to multiple restaurants and hotels.

This year we are pleased to offer the World Trade Organization and World Health Organization. We believe that these committees will provide new opportunities for students to excel and embrace the culture of the global community. We are excited to offer these new committees and, also, will be welcoming back the Organization of the Islamic Conferences and the International Court of Justice. We feel that these bodies offer a unique chance for students to experience and learn of organizations with regional or special mandates which considerably impact in the modern world.

I have every confidence that this year's conference will a great success and will foster a close relationship between all delegates in the ideals of the United Nations. Please review the enclosed documents for registration information or visit our new website at <http://www.gtmun.org>. I wish you luck with your preparations this year, and I hope to welcome you to our conference this October.

Best Regards,

J. Brian Johns
Secretary General
GTMUN 2007

Matthew Bufford
Conference Director

James Hatten
Director General

Brian Johns
Secretary General

Special thanks to:

Molly Cochran, Ph.D
Faculty Advisor

William J. Long, Ph.D
Chair,
San Nunn School of
International Affairs