

2010 GEORGIA TECH
MODEL UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE
Sponsored by the Sam Nunn School of International Affairs
OCTOBER 18-19 2010

March 9, 2010

Dear Model United Nations Advisors,

I am pleased to extend an invitation to the 2010 Georgia Tech Model United Nations Conference (GTMUN). Our Secretariat strives to engage students in a forum of riveting debate, and is working hard to ensure that our conference is an enjoyable and educational experience. This year's conference is scheduled for October 18-19 and will be located on the Georgia Institute of Technology campus in the heart of Midtown Atlanta.

Each year, we are delighted to welcome students from across the nation to our campus for the opportunity to develop and debate solutions to pressing issues facing the international community. The conference facilitates the exchange of ideas and growth of professional relationships between participants. We strive to provide a memorable experience for both delegates and advisors. We offer thirteen diverse committees comprised of 15 to over 100 members that address a multitude of topics and improve students' understanding of the UN structure and the intricacies of the diplomatic process. Our staff consists of Georgia Tech students from various fields of study, contributing an array of knowledge and insight with the aid of faculty of the Sam Nunn School of International Affairs. All members of our staff are eagerly anticipating this year's conference and look forward to working with you and your students.

As in past years, the conference will be held in the College of Management Building located in Tech Square. This facility provides an ideal environment for committee simulation and incorporates Georgia Tech's unique blend of technology and education. Furthermore, with its close vicinity to restaurants, hotels, and the Midtown MARTA station, it is a convenient location for all participants.

We are excited to incorporate four new committees into our conference this year: the World Health Organization (WHO), Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice (CCPCJ), UN Peacebuilding Commission (UNPBC), and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). In addition to Plenary, Security Council, and the General Assembly committees, we will also be welcoming back the UN High Commissioner for Refugees and the UN Development Program. We feel that all of these committees will bolster our efforts to achieve our goal of providing students with the opportunity to explore global relations through the hands-on experience GTMUN offers.

I am very confident that this year's conference will be a tremendous success, fostering new knowledge and a close relationship between all delegates in the ideals of the United Nations. Please review the enclosed documents for registration information and visit our website at <http://www.gtmun.org>. I wish you the best of luck with your preparations for the conference, and I look forward to welcoming you to our campus in October.

Sincerely,

Kelsie Riemenschneider
Secretary General
